Conference Location & Lodging:

McMenamins Edgefield Manor, located at the mouth of the Columbia River Gorge 20 miles from downtown Portland, is a 38-acre estate featuring lodging, restaurants, winery, brewery, distillery, golf course, movie theater, and gardens. Choose from 114 rooms, each unique in décor and style but all comfortable and inviting. Shared baths are located in each wing (some rooms have in-room bath). Room rates range from $50-$133 plus tax per night and include a full breakfast for two in the Black Rabbit Restaurant. For more information go to: www.mcmenamins.com/Edge

Make room reservations now by calling Edgefield Manor toll free from US and Canada 800-669-8610 or locally at 503-669-8610. A limited number of rooms are reserved for the conference until May 5 (though there are likely to be rooms available after this date, please call to check).

From downtown Portland, take I-84 east to Exit 16; follow 238th Drive south to the first traffic light; turn left at Halsey Street; and go east for one-quarter mile to McMenamins Edgefield

Interactive Sessions

This year the first day will be devoted to interactive sessions. These will be less formal than the traditional PowerPoint presentations that we have often used in order to engender more interaction and discussion about common topics of interest to our profession and your programs. Instead of a closely timed series of 15 or 20 minute talks, we will be asking people to come prepared to kick-off discussions. Everyone attending will be expected to participate in discussions after the topic item is introduced. A number of items within each topic area will be discussed in an interactive group setting. Hopefully, we will learn from each other and find ways to improve local programs, work between programs, and work on collaborative next steps.
